BY TRAIN:

Firenze Santa Maria Novella is the main station in Florence. It is located in the city centre and is a major transport hub on the Milan-Naples line, well connected to major Italian cities by high-speed train. Regional trains also arrive and depart from Santa Maria Novella several times per hour, connecting Florence to other cities in Tuscany. There are also interregional and international trains.

Arriving in Florence by car is straightforward. The A1 exits for Florence are Firenze Nord, Firenze Scandicci, Firenze Impruneta and Firenze Sud.

If you come to Florence by car, remember that traffic in the city centre is limited by the ZTL (Zona Traffico Limitato). The ZTL requires that you leave your car at one of the many car parks operated by the "Firenze Parcheggi" network, whose costs and hours vary according to the car park.

TOUR 2: PALAZZO VECCHIO

The Palazzo Vecchio has presided over the Piazza della Signoria in Florence since the architect Arnolfo di Cambio began its construction in 1299. This majestic building has borne witness to numerous conspiracies and undergone major renovations over the years. To discover the secret passages of the Palazzo Vecchio, we'll meet at the scheduled time at the entrance of the palace on Via dei Gondi. The guide will be waiting there to take you on a tour that's impossible to do on your own.

We'll begin by climbing up the secret staircase of the Duke of Athens, Gualtiero de Brienne, who gave the Palazzo Vecchio its fortress-like appearance. This nobleman used the passageway to flee the residence after narrowly escaping a conspiracy. Next, we'll come to the Hall of Geographical Maps and pass through a door hidden in one of its panels. Here we'll see the mysterious study of Francesco I de' Medici, where this young prince used the space to hide his precious treasures. While we're here, we'll try to guess why it's shaped like a boot.

Our tour will end in the Hall of the Five Hundred, where we'll unveil the secrets concealed within this regal place.

TOUR 3: UFFIZI OR ACCADEMIA

Accademia: You will discover the extraordinary works of Paolo Uccello, Domenico Ghirlandaio, Sandro Botticelli and Andrea del Sarto. Michelangelo's world-famous David and other incredible masterpieces of Italian art await! A truly unmissable experience.
